Take a journey to #DiscoverPACS. Once you solve the clue, take a picture and post to Twitter or Facebook (either your own, your department’s or the college’s). Don’t forget to use #DiscoverPACS and/or #Wingspan2016. Rules: Photos must be taken during the duration of the competition (this week) and must be original (no internet photos or other’s photos). Remember, there will be a total of two winners: one for the first student to solve all 25 clues, and one with the most likes on a single photo. Each winner will receive a $100 Visa gift card. There is a reception April 15th at 2:30 pm on the second floor foyer in Chilton Hall to recognize the winners.

1. PACS’ home for the majority of our six departments is named for the man who negotiated the contract with the City of Denton that established Texas Normal College and Teachers’ Training Institute in 1890. He served as university president until 1893. Find the building in his honor and take a picture.

2. Find “The Student” – even though he went missing for two decades, he was found buried and now resides in his original home. He’s a little self-conscious about his arm, though, maybe you could lend him a hand and strike a pose?

3. Portraits of the past deans hang somewhere within Dean Evenson’s current offices. Luckily for us, they still love posing with inquisitive students. I wonder if the Deans’ Office staff snap a quick photo of you two together.

4. All PACS students are training to serve the community, but one group lives this mission. Find the dorm that is home to UNT Serves! and snap a picture.

5. If I was the King of England having to give a speech, I would go to this department for help with my language fluency. Find the department’s home and take a selfie in front of the sign.

6. Ohhhh, what did you say? All UNT students can go to this room (for free!) to determine if you have a hearing loss. Take a picture of yourself in the room!

7. The UNT Speech and Hearing Clinic and the Department of Audiology and Speech Language Pathology have been on campus since 1975. If only there were a display showing off all that history…Find the display inside the clinic and post a pic.

8. The Criminal Justice Department has deep ties to law enforcement. Find the campus building where CJ graduates are often hired to protect and serve and post a picture as your evidence.

9. To better understand the history of criminal justice, students often travel to England and France. Hmm… what office might they visit to study abroad? Find the office that helps you get your passport stamped and post a pic!

10. Where would CSI go to get their training? Perhaps they’d want to check in at this lab dedicated to criminalistics. Now, where did that move to again? Oh right, the East Classroom Building. Better get a photo with the lab, so we don’t forget.

11. Like this fiery bird, our students rise with purpose. I heard The Department of Disability and Addiction Rehabilitation has one of those birds. Some say it’s a work of art. This is one art exhibit where pictures are encouraged.

12. Outside of Chilton Hall is a tree planted in honor of a student who, in her short lifetime, was an advocate for individuals with disabilities. Find the plaque, read her story and take a picture in memorium.

13. UNT is only the second university in the nation to have an intensive outpatient substance use treatment program on campus. Students can get support to find purpose in their life again. The program is located in Chilton Hall, find the office and snap a picture of the company logo.

14. Formed in January 2013, the Department of Community and Professional Programs is the newest department in PACS. Come to our main office, put on a graduation cap, and take a picture of yourself with one of our faculty members.

15. Sometimes we wear our hearts on our sleeves. Find one of Department of Community and Professional Program’s t-shirts that has Gandhi’s quote, “Be the change you want to see in the world” and get a picture with it.

16. Building community often starts around food. Take a picture of yourself with the “pot of gold” that encourages students, faculty, and staff to stop by this department to visit and eat chocolate.

17. We all have a claim to fame. This program can claim to be one of the first departments of gerontology in the country and now has more than 2,000 alumni. The can also claim to be the impetus for what is now PACS. Find the History at a Glance that details all of the Applied Gerontology program claims to fame and take a picture.

18. The Athenian Oath was recited by the citizens of Athens over 2,000 years ago and is still recited by public administrators today. The oath is engraved in granite and prominently displayed in the Department of Public Administration. Perhaps you might want a photo as a reminder…

19. We’re heading into tornado season in Texas, sure hope all of our emergency managers have been trained in this operations lab! While you are checking out the criminalistics lab, take a picture of this lab too.

20. Chilton Hall is the home to many great minds… including yours. Put your mind to use to locate a sculpture that represents the broken feeling of watching a family member suffer from schizophrenia. Post a picture of this piece of art that was donated to the Department of Behavior Analysis.
